7. Housing criminals are not the reason I live in shoreline. We voted to be a city separate and be unlike the city of Seattle, with all of its liberal and over reaching city philosophies. By trying to overreach the constitution with a law that will further limit our ability to enforce laws that are and were meant to protect us as ligament citizens. From those who would come knowing there are no boundaries for them, in terms of our laws, our social expectations or mores.
For the most part, they are not interested in learning our language, our laws, and customs. Believing that citizenship is so easily attained that it usually means we are expected to accept their costumes and their social mores, whatever they may be, with impunity.
We can look at the social ills of other cities that have adopted freedom from question or legitimacy. Who stretch our resources our criminal systems and school facilities, far beyond what those systems already suffer from.
