I am concerned with the problems the ROIC comments have recognized and should be addressed before this development moves forward and it's too late.

Shoreline does have a wonderful opportunity to have a beautiful "statement " area not just a large tower stuck in the center of this area.

I have been a resident of the central corridor of Shoreline since 1983 and have seen a lot of changes and not always good or attractive. Developers have never been concerned with the aftermath of their work only the profit. Shoreline must take control and do what is best for Shoreline businesses and citizens

Although I am not a regular patron of the Central Market, any changes that would affect them should really be considered, they have been such a wonderful business who has supported and enhanced living in Shoreline.

Since this problem is in the same area as the overpass for the interurban where considerable efforts have been made to make this area look good, the efforts should be continued.
